REGISTRARS' NOTES ON NAMES IN THE REGISTER

Corrections to registered hybrids

Rhyncattleanthe Budai Tai La grex

The parentage of Rth. Budai Tai La has been corrected by the registrant to Ctt. [Lc.] Ploenpit Crown × Rth. [Lc.] Siam Bell, Previously the pollen parent was said to be Dendrobium Siam Belle.

Maxillaria anacatalinaportillae Szlach. & Lipińska

A plant distributed by Ecuagenera since Nov 2003 as Maxillaria sanderiana 'Xanthisa' is the probable parent used for several hybrids registered or made by Ecuagenera. This has since been shown to be a misapplied name, and the plants used are now known as Maxillaria anacatalinaportillae – DOI: 10.3897/phytokeys.190.77918 PhytoKeys 190: 21, figs. 3–4 (2022). See note in Orch. Rev. 130(1338): 9 (June 2022).

Cattleya Sea Breeze grex

In 1971, Cattleya Sea Breeze was registered by Fred A. Stewart Orchids with the parentage C. warneri × C. walkeriana, recorded in the register. Recently, additional parentage details have come to the attention of registration staff and we now know that the pollen parent used to make C. Sea Breeze was in fact, C. nobilior (as C. walkeriana var. nobilior "fma. Coerulea"). Mr. Carson E. Whitlow provides details of some of the blue Cattleya hybrids he produced in association with Stewart Orchids, in his appendix of crosses made during the 1960s. We compared his list of hybrids and their additional parentage details with the register, substituting C. walkeriana var. nobilior with C. nobilior and found that we did indeed have some duplicate hybrids registered. They are: C. Sea Breeze and C. Sea Siren, C. Eros and C. Eponinem as well as Lc. Twilight Song and Lc. Vigour Nobiceps. For simplicity, the Registrar decided that it would be better to amend the register detailing the parentage with cross references to duplicate hybrids rather than synonymising the later hybrid names, which could already be well established with orchid breeders and nurseries. Other hybrids that were originally registered with C. walkeriana var. nobilior include Ctt. Blue Dynasty and C. Dusk. With grateful thanks to Assistant Professor Hideka Kobayashi for bringing this to our attention, together with Mr. Whitlow's very useful appendix. See <https://www.c-we.com/cyp.haven/seabreeze.htm>

A new attribution for Spiranthes bightensis 'Chadd's Ford'

Spiranthes 'Chadd's Ford' may well be the most widely grown terrestrial orchid in the UK, after perhaps Dactylorhiza. However, uncertainty over its identity has persisted. Different nurseries variously list it as S. cernua, S. odorata or S. odorata var. cernua. Recently published studies have revealed it is a stabilised natural hybrid of S. cernua × S. odorata, described as Spiranthes bightensis M.C.Pace. See Pace, M.C. (2021) Spiranthes bightensis (Orchidaceae), a new and rare cryptic hybrid species endemic to the U.S. mid-atlantic coast. Phytotaxa 498(3): 159–176.

New natural hybrid name

Cattleya* × gravesiana Pitcher & Manda

The name Cattleya Gravesiana grex has been in use among orchid hybridisers since around 1892 for the hybrid C. lueddemanniana × C. mossiae. These species are partly sympatric in Venezuela, and plants thought to represent this hybrid have been found in Venezuela for a long time. For instance, in 1899 The Orchid Review reported that Mr. A. J. Keeling, Bingley, showed Cattleya mendelii, C. mossiae 'Fimbriata' and C. mossiae 'Gloriosa', a suggested natural hybrid between C. speciosissima [now C. lueddemanniana] and C. mossiae – (OR 7: 215. 1899). Recently the name Cattleya gravesiana when published in 1892 by Pitcher & Manda in Proc. Amer. Soc. Florists & Horticulturists 1892: 83, has been shown to meet the ICN requirements for valid publication, and consequently it becomes the priority name for this natural hybrid.

New cultivars and Groups

Dendrobium friedericksianum* Chanthamane Group

Made 2 March 2011; f.fl. 10 Feb 2015. Registered by Sreesutthipoj.

Plants of this group have flowers with pink-tinged yellow tepals without purple marking on the labellum. This group of Dendrobium friedericksianum Rchb.f. originated from a rare colour form wild specimen. The plant had pink-tinged yellow tepals without purple marking on its labellum. The pink tinge is more pronounced on abaxial side of the tepals. An elite clone, D. friedericksianum 'Thawach' AM/RHT, was self-pollinated. The progeny segregated to 90% with pink-tinged yellow flowers and 10% normal yellow flowers, but all without purple markings on the labellum. Crosses between the same groups yielded flowers with a more intense pink tinge. A hybrid between this group and the ordinary one, without the pink tinge, yielded a segregate population of normal one, and the tinged one with different pink intensity. To date, no intraspecific cross yield 100% pink-tinged progeny. Ordinary or wild-type individuals of Dendrobium friedericksianum have flowers with yellow tepals. This group, however, has distinct pink-tinged yellow tepals without purple markings on the labellum. This unique trait can easily be visually differentiated, from the ordinary or wild-type.

Vanda denisoniana* Apichart Group

Made 13 Mar 2014; f.fl. 29 Apr 2020. Registered by Surawit Wannakrairoj on behalf of Apichart Churchobturm.

This group of Vanda denisoniana Benson & Rchb.f. originated from wild collected specimens, which are distinguished by flower colour. Tepals light yellow with green-yellow edges and dark yellow-orange spots when the flower opens. One week old tepals started changing to yellow-orange. The process took 5–7 days to yield uniformly yellow-orange tepals with spots faded to the point of being unnoticeable. This clone was used as pod parent and pollinated with an unchanged yellow-orange wild-collected V. denisoniana. All progeny, although with different colour intensity, had the same tepal colour change pattern. A repeated cross was made and yielded the same result, indicating the floral colour change trait is stable.

Plants of this group have newly open flowers with yellow tepals that turn to yellow-orange tepals in a week after being fully open. The labellum colour remains unchanged with age. Ordinary or wild-type individuals of Vanda denisoniana normally have flowers with colour variation from light green-yellow to orange-yellow colour, with or without dark spots, on their tepals. Their floral colour remains unchanged with age. This Apichart Group, however, has a distinct tepal colour pattern change from yellow to yellow-orange approximately one week after being fully open. This unique trait can easily be visually differentiated from the ordinary or wild-type.
